

Title Post-harvest technology and marketing of vegetables in the Royal Project Foundation
Author D. Boonyakiat
Citation ISHS Acta Horticulturae 809: 69-76. 2009.
Keyword handling; the Royal Project Foundation; cold chain; quality assurance

Abstract

Improvements in post-harvest technology and food safety in Thailand have been implemented for high-end markets such as supermarkets, hypermarkets and export markets. However, many domestic markets, especially in rural areas, have no requirement for high quality vegetables. Post-harvest handling for vegetables in this market is different. Post-harvest management, food safety and marketing of fresh vegetables in Thailand are discussed.